[NUMB. 897.]

THE South-Carolina Gazette.

From MONDAY July 15th, to MONDAY July 22d, 1751.

From the JAMAICA COURANT, January 19.

THERE was ſome time ſince a Marriage negociated by Bill of Exchange, in one of the Engliſh Iſlands in America; the Circumſtances of which are ſo whimſical, that I believe ſuch of my Readers as have not already heard it, will be diverted with the Relation.

A merchant originally come from London, having acquired a great fortune in that iſland, concluded with himſelf he could not be happy in the enjoyment of it, unleſs he ſhar'd it with a woman of merit; and knowing none to his fancy, he reſolv'd to write to a worthy correſpondent of his at London. He knew no other ſtile than that he us'd in his trade; therefore, treating affairs of love as he did his buſineſs, after giving his friend in a letter ſeveral commiſſions, and reſerving this for the laſt. He went on thus: Item, ſeeing that I have taken a reſolution to marry, and, that I do not find a ſuitable match for me here, do not fail to ſend by next ſhip, bound hither, a young woman of the qualifications and form following. As for a portion I demand none; let her be of an honeſt family; between twenty and twenty-five years of age; of a middle ſtature, and well proportion'd; her face agreeable, her temper mild, her character blameleſs, her health good, and her conſtitution ſtrong enough to bare the change of the climate, that there may be no occaſion to look out for a ſecond through lack of the firſt, ſoon after ſhe comes to hand; which muſt be provided againſt as much as poſſible, conſidering the great diſtance and the dangers of the ſea. If ſhe arrives, and conditioned as above ſaid, with the preſent letter indors'd by you, or, at leaſt, an atteſted copy thereof, that there may be no miſtake or impoſition; I hereby oblige and engage myſelf to ſatisfy the ſaid letter, by marrying the bearer at fifteen days ſight. In witneſs whereof, I ſubſcribe this, &c.

The London correſpondent read over and over the odd article, which put the future ſpouſe on the ſame foot with the bales of goods he was to ſend to his friend, and after admiring the prudent exactneſs of the American and his laconick ſtile, in enumerating the qualifications which he inſiſted on, he endeavour'd to ſerve him to his mind, and after many inquiries, he judged he had found a lady fit for his purpoſe, in a young perſon of a reputable family, but no fortune; of good humour, and of a polite education, well ſhap'd, and more than tolerably handſome, he made the propoſal to her as his friend had directed, and the young gentlewoman, who had no ſubſiſtence but from a croſs old Aunt, who gave her a great deal of uneaſineſs, accepted it. A ſhip bound for that Iſland was then fitting out at Briſtol; the gentlewoman went on board the ſame, together with the bales of goods, being well provided with all neceſſaries, and particular with a certificate in due form, and indors'd by the correſpondent. She was alſo included in the invoice, the laſt article of which ran thus: Item, a maid of twenty five years of age, of the quality, ſhape, and conditioned as per order; as appears by the affidavits and certificates ſhe has to produce. Writings, which were thought neceſſary, to exact a man as the future huſband, were, an extract of the pariſh regiſter; a certificate of her character ſign'd by the curate; an atteſtation of her neighbours, ſetting forth, that ſhe had for the ſpace of three years liv'd with an old Aunt who was intolerable peeviſh, and had not during all that time, given her ſaid Aunt the leaſt occaſion of complaint. And, laſtly, the goodneſs of her conſtitution was certified after conſultation, by four noted phyſicians. Before the gentlewoman's departure, the London correſpondent ſent ſeveral letters of advice by other ſhips to his friend, whereby he inform'd him, that per ſuch a ſhip, he ſent him a young woman, of ſuch an age, character, and condition, &c. in a word, ſuch he deſired to marry. The letters of advice, the bales, and the gentlewoman, came ſafe to the port; and our American, who happened to be one of the foremoſt on the peer at the lady's landing, was charm'd to ſee a handſome perſon, who having heard him call'd by his name, told him, Sir, I have a bill of exchange upon you, and you know, that it is not uſual for people to carry a great deal of money about them; in ſuch a long voyage as I have now made, I beg the favour you'll be pleaſed to pay it. At the ſame time ſhe gave him his correſpondent's letter, on the back of which was writ. The bearer of this is the ſpouſe you order'd me to ſend you. Ha, Madam! ſaid the American, I never yet ſuffered my bills to be proteſted, and I ſwear this ſhall not be the firſt: I ſhall reckon myſelf the moſt fortunate of all men, if you allow me to diſcharge it. Yes, Sir, reply'd ſhe, and the more willingly, ſince I am appriz'd of your character; we had ſeveral perſons of honour on board, who knew you very well, and who, during my paſſage, have anſwered all the queſtions I aſk'd them concerning you, in ſo advantageous a manner, that it has rais'd in me a perfect eſteem for you. This firſt interview was in a few days after followed by the nuptials, which were very magnificent. The new married couple are ſatisfy'd with their happy union made by a bill of exchange, which was the moſt fortunate that had happened in that Iſland for many years.

The ROYAL PATENT MEDICINAL

SNUFF,

Which radically cures moſt DISTEMPERS incident to Human Nature.

To be ſold, by Croſthwate, Brown & Drakeford, at their ſtore in George-Town, and Thomas Croſthwate in Charles-Town, price 15 ſh. per Paper.

The Power, Operation, Uſe, and Efficacy of the Royal Patent Medicinal Snuff.

THIS excellent medicine operates on the head as a purgative, on the ſtomach and lungs as a diſſolvent of the coagulated Phlegm; and, on the blood and juices, as an alterative.

By its operations on the head, it effectually cures confirmed agues lodged there, &c. deafneſs, blindneſs and weakneſs of ſight, and throws off the common pains in the head and gums in a few minutes; lunacies, bloody flux, or piles and jaundice in any degree; impoſthumations or ulcers, inwardly or outwardly, lethargy, gout, polypuſſes in the noſe, apoplexy and various other, and ſimilar diſorders.

By the power on the ſtomach and lungs, &c. it gradually diſſolves coagulated matter; and by the channel of the noſe, by ſtool, urine, or perſpiration, inſenſibly carries off every kind of putrefaction; and thus removing all obſtruction, or oppreſſion on the breaſt, ſtomach, or lungs, it totally eradicates the aſthma, catarrh and phthiſic; recovers to the ſtomach and nerves their genial tone and action; fortifies the breaſt, and utterly annihilates all hyſterical diſorders.

By its efficacious, alterative, and purifying quality, it cleanſes the blood and reins, reſtores the juices to their priſtine ſtate, baniſhes all relicks of former infections, and unſkilful phyſicking, and re-eſtabliſhes the whole animal oeconomy in all their natural functions.

Its ſingular uſe and excellence conſiſts in its being pleaſant in the taking, not hindering buſineſs, travelling, or is interrupted by the common courſe of eating and drinking.

It may be taken any hour of the day, or at any time of the night. And the patient is ſo far from being liable to catching cold after it, that it fortifies the head againſt taking cold; and never fails to have a very happy effect after drinking too much, or bad wine. It is likewiſe ſo free from any diſagreeable operation, that it neither gripes or nauſeates.

In a word, as all diſtempers affect the head principally or eventually, ſo is the noſe preſumed to be the proper channel by which all wholeſome phyſic ſhould paſs: And, however ſingular this may appear, we humbly apprehend it capable of anatomical demonſtration, as well as experimental proof.

Whereas at a meeting of the Commiſſioners for Combahee and Aſhepoo bridges, an aſſeſsment was made for the preſent repairs of the ſaid bridges, on the 20th day of May 1751 amounting to Twelve Hundred Pounds.
